Tasting Reviews - Full Strength

"Full gold colour, visible viscosity. Very lively nose with oaky bourbon vanilla, nail varnish, dried fruits, musk, fudge, some seaweed and fennel. The soft palate gives more sweet vanilla but also almonds and a maritime freshness in the background, with top notes of foam candy and some oiliness. Long aftertaste, with fudgy vanilla and sandalwood notes, together with dry grass or perhaps moss, old wood sweetness and cloudberry. A friend of mine stated that "this is both cigar and cognac - in a whisky!" and why not? It has a very good body and I feel it might go well with game, maritime though it is."

Hope that might be useful. I really like this expression, as it delivers head-on and is truly luxurious, almost "too much of the good stuff" - which, as everyone knows, can be wonderful.
